Dear Customer:

In 2009, the FDA released new standards for GMPs (Good Manufacturing Practices). GMPs are guidelines that govern the way in which dietary supplements are manufactured. GMPs provide a system of processes, procedures and documentation to ensure that the products being produced have the identity, strength, composition, quality and purity being represented.

ScienceBased Health’s (SBH) manufacturing facilities meet or exceed all of the new GMP standards. In addition these facilities have been awarded NSF® certification – an optional third-party verification that ensures manufacturer compliance with the GMPs. For the past 60 years, NSF International® has been the world leader in standards development, product certification, education, and risk-management for public health and safety.

In compliance with the new GMPs, SBH products no longer display expiration dates on the bottles. Rather, they include the date of manufacture on the bottom of each bottle labeled as either “MANUF.DATE” or “MFG”.

As a general guideline, the following timeline should be used to determine shelf life of SBH products:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Product Name</th>
<th>Estimated Shelf Life (from MANUF.DATE)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>OcularProtect®, OcularEssentials® and MacularProtect Complete® AREDS2 capsules</td>
<td>1 year</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MacularProtect® AREDS2, MacularProtect Complete® AREDS2 drink mix, MacularProtect Plus®, DiaVis®, BoneProtect™, JointProtect™, HydroEye®, Optic Nerve Formula®, OmegaAdvance®</td>
<td>2 years</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Products should be stored in a cool dry place to maximize shelf life.
